Decoding economic drivers of India's Gen Z protests and debate over jobs

HT Correspondent
letters@hindustantimes.com

NEW DELHI: This summer, thousands of young Indians took to the streets to demand sweeping reforms of the higher education sector. This unexpected wave of Gen Z mobilisation was catalysed by the emergence of the Cockroach Janta Party (CJP), a satirical meme page that blossomed into a national movement. Protests that began over the state of higher education soon tapped into something much larger: growing frustration among young Indians over jobs, economic opportunity, and their prospects for the future.

India's jobs debate is often framed around a familiar set of concerns: too many people working in agriculture, too few manufacturing jobs, an economy that is too-services oriented, and stubbornly high unemployment among the young. But not all of these truisms about the Indian economy are actually borne out by the data, argues economist Vidya Mahambare.

GRAND TAMASHA

Mahamabare elaborated on her views on the season premiere of Grand Tamasha, a weekly podcast on Indian politics and policy co-produced by HT and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Mahambare is the Union Bank Chair Professor of Economics and Director at the Great Lakes Institute of Management in Chennai. She studies central banking and monetary policy, structural transformation, labour market dynamics and gender economics.

> MAHAMBARE HIGHLIGHTED THE FACT THAT, IN INDIA, IT IS THE RICHEST STATES THAT HAVE THE HIGHEST RATES OF YOUTH UNEMPLOYMENT

Mahambare spoke with Grand Tamasha host Milan Vaishnav about the economic drivers of the Gen Z protests, the link between unemployment and education, and the futility of the manufacturing versus services debate. She also discussed the exodus of young people from the agricultural sector, the misleading headlines on female labour force participation, and India's acute urban housing shortage.

Mahambare highlighted the fact that, in India, it is the India's richest states that have the highest rates of youth unemployment.

"In prosperous states like Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Telangana, unemployment among young people is high, which seems counter-intuitive. In these states, education levels are higher, and more men and women are looking for jobs, so the labour force is simply larger. Second, educated people want a specific kind of job, so they wait for it. To wait, you need a kind of privilege," she explained. "In poorer states, unemployment is low, but it's because fewer people, especially women, are looking for work. Men there can't wait long; whatever job comes up, they have to take it quickly because there's no family support."

The economist also took issue with the oft-repeated claim that India needs to get more young people out of agriculture. "If we look at people in the age group of 20 to 29, currently only 13% of young adults in India are working in agriculture. Twenty years back, that number was 34%," she stated.

"Structural transformation among today's young has already taken place. The median age of agricultural labor is now 53 in Kerala, 48 in Tamil Nadu, and 40 in all of India. If we push for more people to leave, it will be young people who go."

Mahambare said the time is ripe to think about how "we discuss agriculture as an industry, an occupation, and how we help raise incomes within it rather than talking as if the transformation hasn't happened, because among the young it's nearly complete."

Looking ahead, she identified the absence of a manufacturing base in northern states as a key economic challenge.

ALT-FUEL CAR SALES

Giridhar, however, warned that further price hikes risked eroding gains from last year's tax reforms introduced to fuel consumption.

"August 2026 delivered the biggest-ever August in Indian auto retail, with the industry registering 24,23,201 units, up 17.51 per cent YoY, even as retails eased 6.48 per cent over a record July on the seasonal monsoon lull and a festival calendar that shifted Ganesh Chaturthi and the spillover of Onam-led buying into September," Giridhar said.

According to him, the defining development of the month, however, was a structural one: for the first time in India's history, alternative fuels - CNG, hybrid and electric combined - overtook petrol in the Passenger Vehicle market, at 41.95 per cent against petrol's 40.85 per cent. A little over a year ago petrol led this contest by nearly eleven percentage points; that lead has now been erased.

The country's largest carmaker, Maruti Suzuki India on Monday said it will raise prices of select models by up to 20,000 rupees ($211.80) from September, its third hike since May.

India is heading into its annual festive season, a period that typically spurs big-ticket purchases. Giridhar said despite inflationary pressures and price increases, dealers remain optimistic about sales.

Passenger-vehicle inventory increased by five days from end-July levels to about 38–40 days, FADA said.

The auto industry has been experiencing robust growth ever since GST rates were reduced in September 2025.

Meanwhile, passenger vehicle (PV) retail sales were at 4,02,398 units last month as compared to 3,46,468 units in August 2025, a growth of 16.14 per cent.

Two-wheeler sales were up 19.69 per cent to 17,14,610 units in August this year as compared to 14,32,537 units in the same month a year ago, according to FADA.

Three-wheeler sales stood at 1,22,281 units last month as compared to 1,12,553 units in August 2025, a growth of 8.64%.

Commercial vehicles also witnessed a 14.45 per cent rise in retail sales at 90,769 units last month as compared to 79,306 units in 2025, it added.

Rural passenger vehicle sales rose 24.99 per cent versus urban's 10.93 per cent; rural commercial vehicle sales rose 16.33 per cent; and rural three-wheeler sales rose 23.95 per cent, even as urban three-wheeler sales fell.

"Rural demand, in other words, has begun to decouple from the monsoon - the farm-income-linked segment softened, yet the non-farm rural economy of livelihood mobility, goods movement and construction kept accelerating," Girdhar stated.

Looking ahead to September 2026, dealer sentiment stays constructive but has moderated from July's peak.
