

17-year-old's death: Child rights panel registers suo motu case

Case based on media reports | Police deny father's charges that they assaulted the boy

M K SAJEEVKUMAR @Thrissur

THE KERALA State Commission for Protection of Child Rights has registered a suo motu case in connection with the death by suicide of a 17-year-old at Eriyad in Kodungallur. The action follows serious allegations raised by the child's father, Noushad, against the Kodungallur police. The commission has sought reports from the Thrissur District Police Chief and the District Child Protection Officer.

Meanwhile, Kodungallur Station House Inspector Arun B K denied the father's allegation that the child was assaulted by the police. Speaking to TNIE, he said voice messages related to the complaint alleging that money and gold had been obtained from a girl were available on the phone of the accused person. He said the incidents occurred four months ago and alleged that the boy had obtained money and gold from the girl before also acquiring a car and an iPhone. According to the police, the boy may have been driven to suicide after the matter came to the notice of the police and his family. The SHO said the police had taken steps to recover the money and gold.

The Child Rights Commission initiated the case suo motu based on media reports. It has sought reports from the officers concerned as part of its examination of the police action and the circumstances surrounding the child's death.

The father, Pazhuparambil Noushad, has alleged that his son was falsely implicated in a case related to a romantic relationship and subjected to physical and mental harassment, which he claims led to the death. He levelled the allegations against personnel of the Kodungallur Janamaithri Police Station. In a social media post, Noushad alleged that his son was brutally assaulted during the investigation into the complaint and that the resulting mental distress led to his death.

According to Noushad, the sequence of events began on September 27, when the family received a call from the Kodungallur Janamaithri Police Station. He alleged that the police took his younger son, who was a minor, and his 22-year-old elder son into custody for questioning and assaulted both of them.

The father said his younger son was summoned to the police station in connection with a complaint alleging that he had threatened a girl over the phone and obtained 20 sovereigns of gold and Rs 50,000 from her. However, Noushad claimed that his son

POLICE VERSION TO BE EXAMINED

With the Child Rights Commission seeking reports, the investigation will need to examine whether prescribed procedures were followed in taking the child into custody, questioning him and dealing with the case under the juvenile justice system. The allegations raised by the father and the police version of events will need to be examined. The circumstances surrounding the child's death remain to be established through an official investigation.

had been in a relationship with the girl for nearly two years and that the dispute arose when he went to her house to meet her.

Noushad alleged that his elder son agreed to take responsibility for the alleged offence after witnessing the police assault on his younger brother at the station. He further claimed that the elder son had told him that the younger boy was beaten in the abdomen and private parts and struck on the neck.

The father alleged that his elder son was kept in custody for around three days before being produced before a court, while the minor was presented before the Juvenile Justice Board. According to his social media post, the younger son was kept at an observation home for around four days before being released on bail.

Noushad also alleged that his son was not provided medical treatment despite requests to take him to a hospital for injuries sustained during the alleged assault in custody. He further claimed that footage recorded at the police station was circulated, adversely affecting his elder son's future.

According to Noushad, after being released from the observation home, his younger son expressed a desire to visit his elder brother, who was lodged in a sub-jail. The boy visited his brother along with his mother and broke down in tears when they met, the father said.

After returning home, the boy spent considerable time with family members that night before going to sleep in an upstairs room. He was found dead the next morning, according to the father.

Noushad alleged that the mental distress caused by the alleged assault on his elder son and the latter's detention in jail led to the younger boy's death. He has demanded a comprehensive investigation and legal action against the officials responsible.

Floating bridge that stretched into the sea lies idle on shore | EXPRESS

Setback as floating bridge lies idle on Chavakkad shore

M K SAJEEVKUMAR @Thrissur

THE FLOATING bridge at Blangad Beach in Chavakkad, which once stretched nearly 100 m into the sea and offered tourists a unique experience, now lies dismantled on the shore. Opened to visitors in October 2023, the bridge was brought ashore after being partially dislodged during rough sea conditions. As efforts to repair and reinstall it remain stalled, one of the beach's major tourism attractions continues to lie idle.

The bridge had attracted visitors by offering an opportunity to walk over the sea and enjoy the waves at close quarters. It soon became a popular attraction among families and tourists seeking an experience beyond conventional beach activities. However, rough sea conditions and strong waves posed challenges to the safety and maintenance of the facility.

The project was operated by a private company. Although steps were initiated to repair and reinstall the bridge, operations could not be resumed. Guruvayur MLA N K Akbar said a tender had been invited to identify a new contractor. The bridge would resume operations only after a comprehensive safety inspection, he added.

Public activist Varsha Manikandan alleged that entrusting the project to a private agency without giving it adequate attention had dealt a setback to coastal tourism in Chavakkad. She said authorities should ensure the continued operation and maintenance of tourism projects instead of focusing only on launching them.

Tourism potential remains untapped

Blangad Beach has considerable potential to emerge as a major coastal tourism destination. Attracting pilgrims visiting Guruvayur and other tourists to the beach could boost tourism in the region. Packages combining temple visits with beach outings could encourage visitors to extend their stay and generate additional income for local businesses.

Apart from the floating bridge, tourism initiatives incorporating coastal recreational activities, local cuisine and cultural experiences could be developed. Basic amenities, including clean toilets, changing rooms, drinking water, lighting, parking and waste management facilities, also need to be improved.

At the same time, authorities must prioritise safety by monitoring rough sea warnings, conducting regular inspections and suspending operations during adverse weather conditions. Along with restoring the floating bridge, steps are needed to ensure the comprehensive development of tourism at Chavakkad Beach.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Thrissur

THE THRISSUR city police have arrested five persons within 12 hours in an alleged honey trap and extortion case in which a Puthur native was assaulted, robbed of cash and valuables, and threatened with the circulation of photographs and videos to extort more money.

The arrested are Alona, 19, of Mandamangalam and the complainant's friend, her friend

Joel, 20, of Kallur, Lisha, 40, of Murikkinpara in Mandamangalam, Ashid, 32, of Vadookkara in Kuriachira and Ansar, 26, of Yakkara in Palakkad.

According to police, the incident occurred on October 10. Alona allegedly travelled with the complainant in his car from Shakthan bus stand in Thrissur to Palakkad. During the journey, she allegedly sent messages to the other accused, who later entered a hotel room near Tipu Sultan Fort in Palakkad and assaulted the complainant.

Police said that the accused snatched the complainant's car keys, wallet and mobile phone. They took ₹9,000 from his wallet and also transferred ₹16,500 via Google Pay from his account. They also allegedly took photographs and videos of him with Alona and threatened to send it to his wife, and circulate them on social media, unless he paid them ₹2 lakh. They allegedly continued to threaten him through phone calls, demanding money.

The complainant approached Ollur police station on October 13, following which a case was registered and the investigation was transferred to Thrissur East police station. Thrissur city police commissioner Nakul Rajendra Deshmukh constituted a special team to probe the case. Two of the accused were first arrested from Kuttanellur. Based on information obtained during their questioning, the remaining three were arrested from Mandamangalam, Vadookkara and Palakkad, said the police.
