'We would rather die here than surrender our land'

Govt sources said NHPC wants to conduct drilling for the project's pre-feasibility report. Villagers oppose any drilling in the riverbed, insisting they do not want a feasibility report prepared at all. They fear the security crackdown is meant to muzzle resistance.

"We will not abandon our settlement. We would rather die here than surrender our land. If the Chinese dam is the threat, why should our govt build another mega dam in the Siang belt, nearly 300km from the Line of Actual Control? Govt should explore alternatives closer to the border to counter China's plans," Panyang said.

Twenty-seven villages across Upper Siang and Siang districts have joined the agitation.

'Doubt whether our correct details will ever be restored'

UP chief electoral officer, Navdeep Rinwa, had termed the changes a "deliberate crime, rather than mistake".

Speaking with TOI on Tuesday, Robina, whose name appeared differently on the Election Commission portal, said, "We've brought the matter to the notice of Puranpur SDM Nagendra Pandey."

SDM of Puranpur circle, Nagendra Pandey, told TOI, "Robina's altered name on our online records was brought to my notice. EPIC number of Robina and Ravindra Singh seemed to be the same. We're probing the matter and will reach a final conclusion soon."

ADM/deputy district electoral officer, Prasoon Dwivedi, said that "these may not be clerical errors, but deliberate attempts". He added, "Appropriate legal measures will be taken if tampering with voter details is detected in any constituency of Pilibhit district."

Congress's Kumud Gangwar said, "Our team is working on the voter list irregularities in the whole of Pilibhit district. We are aware of the name changes in Puranpur..." Gangwar has demanded a judicial or CBI probe.

Others from the same district -- such as Nuruddin Ahmad (32) and Wahid Ahmad (50) – alleged that names of several members of their family were "missing" from rolls. "I doubt whether correct details will ever be restored," said Mohd Qamar.

Is commerce more imp than citizens' life? SC raps Centre

Complete Control Of Drug Mkt Not Feasible, Says Govt

Bhati said, "The Indian drug market is fairly competitive, with a large number of pharmaceutical companies in every drug segment, resulting in one of the lowest prices in the world. Ordinarily, where there is substantial competition, there is no need to regulate prices. It is not that the govt has left the market unregulated but the complete control of the market is not feasible."

Not convinced of the response, the bench said, "Should they (pharma companies) be allowed to run amok? What is the justification for the difference in prices? You are not able to come with an answer. We have asked you 30 times. Do not talk about control... You are talking about economic policy and commerce. Is commerce more important than the life of citizens and be given precedence?"

The court, during the hearing, said that the wife of a medical distributor of anti-cancer medicine got admitted to a reputed hospital in Delhi for cancer treatment and he requested the hospital to allow him to bring the injection as he was himself a dealer of the medicine, which comes at a dealer price of Rs 11,000. The hospital, however, refused his plea and charged Rs 1,30,000 for that injection.

Senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi, appearing for private hospitals, submitted that his clients charge MRP from patients and the excess amount is used for cross subsidisation for treatment of patients. But the bench said that the private hospitals can increase the charge for treatment and the common man should not suffer because of high MRP.

'No news will be disseminated if journalists seek consent'

The court said, "Media must ensure that there is no misuse of the rights enjoyed by it. There must be a balance between your rights and the rights of innocent citizens. We will have to leave it to you to suggest how best you are going to ensure that the media's rights are not misused and the right to privacy of citizens are not violated."

Appearing for the petitioner, senior advocate Madhavi Divan said provisions of DPDP Act failed to provide exemption in favour of journalistic activity as a distinct class and had brought the regime of notice and prior consent within it which would lead to closure of newsrooms as they feed live information. If journalists went around seeking consent of people, then no news could be disseminated, she said.

"It is not merely the fundamental right to speech and expression and dissemination of information owing to freedom of the press which has been set at nought by the aforesaid provision, but the DPDP Act places myriad restrictions in the manner in which information is accessed, processed and disseminated," DNPA said.

"In the absence of exemptions, the entire scheme under Chapter II of DPDP Act will constitute unreasonable restrictions upon journalists in the exercise of the fundamental right to freedom of speech," it added.

MLC polls: Leading SP alleges irregularities, halt in counting of votes

Sudeep Lavania@timesofindia.com

Agra: Samajwadi Party (SP) candidate Akash Agrawal was leading by 691 votes after the first round of counting in the Agra division teachers' MLC election on Tuesday, amid allegations of irregularities and a halt in counting that triggered protests by party workers outside the Mandi Samiti counting centre.

Samajwadi Party workers accused the administration of acting under pressure from the ruling party to ensure Agrawal's defeat. SP president Akhilesh Yadav also raised the issue on X, alleging that counting had been stopped while his party's candidate was leading. He urged the Election Commission to intervene.

According to the first-round results available at the time of writing ths news, Agrawal secured 5,550 votes, while his rival, Hari Kishore Tiwari, received 4,859 votes. Independent candidate Dilip Kumar Amauriya polled 949 votes, and Ran Vijay Yadav secured 861 votes. Another 861 votes were declared invalid.

Agrawal alleged that counting had been halted for around half an hour and demanded that officials ensure a fair and transparent process. The dispute led to heated exchanges between workers and police personnel outside the counting centre.

Concerns over ballot handling were also raised by SP graduate constituency candidate Shashank Yadav, alias Seetu, and independent candidate Ambrish Pal Singh. They alleged that ballot papers were being removed from ballot boxes in bundles of 10 to 15 and that some did not bear the presiding officers' signatures.

Counting of votes underway at Mandi Samiti booth in Agra

The candidates claimed that the election officials had said that ballots would be counted irrespective of whether they carried the required signatures. Ambrish Pal Singh also alleged that marked ballots, which he claimed should be excluded, were being included in the bundles.

The elections cover 12 districts in the Agra division, including Agra, Firozabad, Mathura, Aligarh, Etah, Mainpuri, Etawah, Farrukhabad, Kasganj, Hathras, Auraiya and Kannauj. Returning officer Nagendra Pratap said counting for the Agra Division Graduate and Teachers' Constituency was continuing.

Sr doc: AI could reshape role of radiologists

Prof Neeraj Nischal, internal medicine, AIIMS, said, "General Medicine appeals to candidates who enjoy clinical challenges, patient interaction and managing complex diseases. While the financial rewards may take longer to materialise, the scope for super-specialisation and professional growth is immense. Ultimately, the choice should be guided by what fulfils you as a doctor, not just by how quickly you can start earning."

According to a senior doctor, who spoke on condition of anonymity, Radiology is attractive because it offers good earning potential early in one's career. However, with artificial intelligence advancing rapidly, some candidates may also be weighing the technology's long-term impact on the specialty. AI could automate parts of image interpretation and report generation, raising questions about how the radiologist's role may evolve. While this does not mean that human expertise will not be needed, the growing role of AI could influence how students assess radiology as a career choice.

Atal Bihari Vajpayee Institute of Medical Sciences and Dr Ram Manohar Lohia Hospital in Delhi appeared multiple times for General Medicine.

6 endangered owls trapped in house rescued as hunger cries alert family

Harveer Dabas | TNN

Bijnor: In a timely intervention that saved six critically endangered young birds, the forest department rescued six barn owl chicks which had accidentally got trapped inside a house in Bijnor's Krishna Vihar Colony. The two-and-a-half-month-old chicks—four males and two females—are now receiving specialised care and rehabilitation under the close supervision of wildlife officials.

The predicament began when a window used as an entry and exit point by the parent owls was sealed during routine home repairs. Unaware that a nest of chicks was inside, resident Jagdish and his family only discovered the birds after hearing their persistent, hungry calls echoing from within the structure. The family immediately alerted local authorities to secure help for the distressed wildlife.

Two-and-a-half-month-old chicks are now receiving specialised care

A rescue team led by forest ranger Mahesh Gautam promptly responded to the scene, successfully extracting all six chicks without harm. They were immediately transferred to the forest department office, where comprehensive relief efforts are currently underway.

To support their growth and recovery, officials have placed the chicks on a nutrient-rich diet, feeding them approximately one kilogram of chicken and mutton daily during their natural nocturnal activity hours.

Department officials are currently preparing to transition the young birds to a dedicated wildlife rescue centre, where they will receive further care until they are fully rehabilitated and ready for release back into the wild.

Highlighting the ecological significance of the rescue, ranger Gautam noted that barn owls—easily recognised by their heart-shaped facial discs and silent flight—play a vital role in natural pest control by regulating rodent populations near human habitations. The species is afforded strict legal safeguards under Schedule I of the Wildlife (Protection) Act, 1972, making their protection and welfare a high priority for local conservationists.

All prisoners will be recaptured: Minister

Opposition leaders targeted the TVK govt, describing the escape of prisoners as a sign of total breakdown of law and order. Chief minister C Joseph Vijay did not respond to the criticism. Prisons department minister CTR Nirmalkumar said govt would ensure that all the escaped prisoners were recaptured.

Preliminary inquiries revealed five of the prisoners, accused in a murder case, had planned the escape and other inmates of their block joined them. "The group had intended to follow railway tracks towards a station or Madurai before boarding a train to a distant destination. But we already had tracks and stations covered," Bidari said adding that the remaining escapees would be caught soon.
